Pawsitive Mold Detection

In 2019, I suffered from increased anxiety, worsened eyesight, and brain fog. A visit to my functional medicine doctor revealed what we feared, toxic mold exposure. Over the next 4 years I started detoxing my body and I had my home tested for mold. While we were able to determine there was mold, we did not know where it was located. My doctor mentioned that a mold sniffing dog could help find the source of the mold—that caught my attention. After all, dogs are trained to find bombs, drugs, and bed bugs, why not mold? Unfortunately, there wasn't a mold dog in the area. As a lifelong dog person, both in business and hobby, I knew what I had to do.

I enrolled my Border Terrier, Acorn, in a canine mold detection training program, and finally located the mold in my home. Now, Acorn and I travel the country to help people impacted by toxic mold exposure by inspecting their homes to find the the source of the problem mold in their homes and businesses. If you've had your life turned upside-down from toxic mold exposure like me, visit our website to learn how we can help.
